Base Ball Dance Again Post- poned May 28 Probable Date

The big base ball rally, to consist of a whist and five hundred drive as well as the orthodox dance, has of necessity been postponed again. May 28th is now the date to be kept under your. The continuation of wet and cold weather will further delay seeding to this extent and Bob Plunkett will have that much more time to prepare his speech. Enchant has kindly offered to get their team together and give Lomond a contest that afternoon, so, taking all things into consideration, it is apt to be a proper opening to the ball season proper.

ALL DEPENDS UPON ONE'S FAMILIARITY

The young instructor was holding a class on board of one of His Majesty's ships. Grammar was the subject his bright but uninterested pupils were trying to tackle.

"What are the two principal parts of a sentence?" he asked an old salt expecting, of course, the answer, "subject and predicate."

After much meditation, Jack finally plunged into it: "solitary confinement and bread and water."

WORLD IS FACING A WHEAT SHORTAGE

WASHINGTON, April 19.—Indications of a world-wide shortage of wheat this year and a world-wide increase in the demand was reported today by the American agricultural trade commissioner in London who said bread was selling in England at what was generally considered the highest price the working man would tolerate without grave disorders.

With Russia still in a chaotic state there is little to be expected from that country in the way of wheat exports, and Europe naturally turns to Canada, Australia, India, and the United States and Argentina. Some European countries will be compelled to import larger quantities of wheat than in pre-war times, provided they are able to arrange satisfactory credits, the reports say. Conflicting reports in London from Russia place wheat available for export at 35,000,000 to 140,000,000 bushels but railroad equipment is not sufficient to move any large quantity. England and other European countries will have to depend on Canada, the United States and other wheat exporting nations.

The British government has announced the maximum price for the 1920 crop to be the average price of imported wheat of similar quality, provided the price so paid the home grower shall not exceed $2.89 a bushel. United States imports, the commissioner reported, were ranging from $3.04 to $4.11 or an average of $3.46 a bushel.

REPORT ON WINTER CROPS.

LONDON, April 19.—Bulletin of the agriculture institute announces the winter crops are making good progress in Australia, Belgium, Denmark, and the United Kingdom. Parts of Italy and Algeria suffered by drought otherwise the condition of the crops is satisfactory. Winter wheat reports comprise about one-half the usual extent sown in the northern hemisphere, showing a decrease in the cultivated areas of seven per cent, compared with last year. Spring sowing was carried out favorably in Morocco and is well advanced in Austria, Belgium, France, England and Ireland, and favorably commenced in Denmark, Scotland and Italy.

WILL CONTROL WHEAT.

Paris, April 19.—The government's programme for wheat control provides for the price fixing for three years, guaranteeing the producer an adequate return. The government will monopolize the importation of wheat and will retain its right to requisition domestic supplies.

CANADIAN TRADE CON- DITIONS GOOD

Trade reports received this week from all the chief centers of Canada indicate a continuance of business activity, says the weekly statement of the Canadian Credits Men's Trusts Association. Collections are, however, slow, and on the average about five per cent off those of the corresponding period of 1919.

Grocery houses, boots and shoes, dry goods and hardware in Winnipeg all report a continual flow of orders, with prices firm. Hardware and metal trades find difficulty in obtaining goods and this will have a tendency to slack up trades and work along this line. Retailers are, as a whole, fairly busy, with the clothing trades a little perturbed by a campaign of cutting in prices.

Toronto and Ontario districts report wholesale dry goods satisfactory with difficulty experienced obtaining goods in certain lines. Wholesale grocery is good is with prices firm; retail trade quiet though improving with warmer weather and spring work on farms now well under way.

Montreal wholesalers report business active in dry goods, boots shoes and hardware. Manufactures are generally working to capacity. Collections in that part of the east are reported good. Retail trade only fair owing to inclement weather conditions.

Calgary and Edmonton offices of the association state that wholesale grocers in the Alberta area express the opinion that trade is good for the time of year in view of weather and other conditions. Wholesale collections there are also good, but not up to last year's average. Retailers report business a little slack since Easter, due to the backward spring. Business for the next few weeks will depend very largely on whether warm spring weather is experienced immediately.

Wet weather in Manitoba during the week will, it is expected, further delay seeding, but with good winds and sun, this may be commenced in some parts with the commencement of May.

In the Alberta districts, farmers in the south are now on the land, but the spring gives promise of being the latest since 1897, and it will be two weeks yet before farming operations can commence in the northern part of the province, even with decidedly warm weather from now on. In Alberta there has been more precipitation during the first half of April than during any whole month since October last.

The first Saskatchewan bulletin of the season indicates that in that province seeding will be considerably delayed, and in some places snow is still lying on the level to a considerable depth. Estimates given on the acreage to be sown to wheat show a decrease of from 20 to 25 per cent is probable. Heavy loss in livestock is reported in consequence of severe winter conditions, although in some parts very little more than the average winter loss is shown.

By time cattle on the grass losses in Alberta and Saskatchewan are expected to total 30 per cent, and in Manitoba, twenty per cent.

Recent floods along the Drumheller line of the C.N.R. washed out fifteen bridges and completely cut off all traffic, and as a consequence Calgary was up against a coal famine. The city had nothing on Lomond at that.

Base Ball dance on Friday, May 14.

The steering gear on Plunket's school van car gave way the other night and precipitated a minor smash with a telephone pole. No one was seriously hurt.

The roads are being very badly cut up by the heavy spring traffic and it will be necessary to do repair work very early to save what has already been done in the last few years.

Seeding is not just exactly what one would call general, yet most people have at least made a start. Grass is later than usual coming to a feeding stage, but a very few days of real warm weather would fix things up in good shape. Local dairy butter is still at a premium and eggs are being bid for at 45c a dozen. While conditions in the south as affecting livestock are very bad the rate of mortality is low as compared to that in the north, if reports can be relied upon. So much feed was shipped out of the north that there was no reserve left to carry the animals through the abnormally late spring.

Quality

QUALITY is measured by the degree of of satisfaction. Durability alone does not represent quality. Nor does style nor fine tailoring. Everything that goes to make up a "quality" has its intrinsic value or is worth its cost. A fine garment may be hacked to death by a master price cutter. He may cheapen the canvas and inside parts, and have it bagged where it should be hand sewn. And still the garment would have the same appearance to the untrained eye.

Every garment in our store was made to our own order and bought direct from the factory.

Business with us has shown a steady improvement—ample proof that our service is appreciated.

Tests of Intelligence

(By H. Addington Bruce)

You ask me concerning the practical value of psychological tests of Intelligence. You further ask me, in the event that I consider these really valuable, to describe some so that you may use them to measure your own mind.

You can estimate your intelligence well enough without resorting to psychological devices. All that you need do is to ask yourself, and to answer candidly, a few simple questions.

In your daily work do you keep your ear, eyes, and mind open to suggestions that will enable you to work better? Do you profit from your mistakes, appreciate wherein you have fallen short and plan to avoid similar mistakes in the future?

Do you welcome criticism as an aid to self-improvement? Do you appreciate that, no matter how old you may be or how experienced, there will always be something for you to learn?

Hence, do you refuse to let conceit or prejudice take possession of you, and do you avoid making snap judgments?

Do you act consistently on the principle of sacrificing present pleasure whenever that is necessary to insure the avoiding of future pain?

In accordance with this principle, do you practise thrift as regards your savings? Do try to save some money every week so that you will not lack resources when your working days are done.

Do you also give thought to the future so far as your health is concerned?

Do you recognize, indeed, that the more hygienically you live the less likely will you be to fall ill?

Do you as an additional means of averting illness, pay an occasional visit to your doctor even when you are feeling quite well?

If you are able to answer most of the above questions in the affirmative you may rest assured that your intelligence is high, indeed. If you have to answer most of them in the negative, you may well feel troubled as to the state of your intelligence.

You may be the most learned man in the world, the most successful business man, but if you cannot meet the above tests you cannot call yourself a man of great intelligence.

One of the reasons given was to permit unorganized territory that could be served by the same system of water mains to organize and get in under the one flotation of bonds. In this was the cost of construction on the entire system would be cut about ten per cent. There may yet be hope for our territory to get in on the deal.

Women in England Invading Every Calling

The war years gave women their opportunity, which they were by no means slow to take advantage of and so in peace they are getting a foothold in spheres which in pre war times bore the sign "For Men Only". Lady Astor, the woman M.P., is now a hackneyed story; Maude Royden, occupying the pulpit of an old London church, the City Temple, is a tale retold; a bonnie girl who as an embryo lawyer has entered the ranks of the Law Society, and taken her place in and among the benches of Lincoln's Inn, the first woman to sit among them since Queen Elizabeth.

Twenty thousand woman studying for the medical profession tells a potent story while we also find these feminine invaders in the ranks of the chemists, engineers, auctioneers, estate agents, and chauffeurs. Then there's Miss Manicom, the woman of twenty-eight, who organized and fought the Pearl Assurance strike, and has just won a vital victory; and Mrs. Butler of Ryde House School, Ripley, Yorkshire, is ambitious on quite another field, the football field. She presented herself before the Surrey Referees' examination committee as a fully qualified referee. She proved she had sound knowledge of the game, trains the school team, and referees the matches. (Imagine a Canadian woman wanting to referee a ball game, and you'll appreciate the sensational innovation.) Now meet Miss Jessie Stephens, who has been elected a member of the Bermondsey council. She was formerly a domestic servant. In turn she has been a parlor-maid, general, cook, odd-maid, and warehouse portor, and her next move will be to enter parliament. Politics being such a dirty game, she is the right one to "clean up."
